1 What is Marine Cargo insurance?

Marine Cargo Insurance covers loss of or damage to your cargo whilst in transit or being shipped from one place to another destination whether you are importing, exporting or transporting goods domestically by sea, air, road, rail, parcel post or courier. Common coverages available include:

- Institute Cargo Clauses (A) or Institute Cargo Clauses (Air) or Overland Transportation (All Risks) Clause
This is the widest coverage available. It covers all risks of loss of or damage to your goods during transit except as provided in the exclusions.
- Institute Cargo Clauses (B)
It covers everything in Institute Cargo Clauses (C) plus earthquake, volcanic eruption and lightning; sea, lake or river water entering the vessel, conveyance or container; and total loss of any package dropped during loading onto or unloading from the vessel.
- Institute Cargo Clauses (C)
It covers major accidents including fire or explosion; vessel being stranded, grounded, sunk or capsized; overturning of land conveyance; collision of vessel or conveyance; and jettison.

Coverage for war, strikes, riots, civil commotions and terrorism risks are also available.
